Highly recommended for all, especially people in First World countries. 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Great educational placemat - I wish it were studied By Customer My husband bought 2 placemats for our sons, but I think I enjoy reading the South facing up one as much as they do. I never realized how big Chad was until I saw this map. It really changes your perspective when Australia is in the middle front, rather than Europe. I'd give it 5 stars but the placemat is a little flimsy and has gotten warped from being washed. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. My grand-kids love them. By Bob An eye-opening map. Equal area like the Peters World Map, with less distortion around the equator. Educational and great for dinner-table conversations. My grand-kids love them.

Hobo-Dyer Equal Area - Two-sided: North-up Africa-centered/South-up Australia-centered  A map that not only shows true size comparisons, but also turns the world upside down to challenge North-South perceptions. Based on the popularity of the Peters concept of equal area, we produced a similar map, the Hobo Dyer Projection, which offers less elongation than the Peters map but more compression at the poles. This is the map that President Jimmy Carter used to display his agency's efforts at his Nobel Peace Prize ceremony in December 2002. Also see our new

About the Author
About ODT
maps in Amherst Massachusetts: When the award-winning TV show, West Wing contacted ODT in February 2001, for permission to feature the Peters Projection map on an episode, ODT was catapulted into the spotlight of the map publishing market. Since that time, the organization has published the "What's Up? South!" world map, the Hobo-Dyer world map, the Population map, the incisive and insightful book, Seeing Through Maps and the fascinating exploration of maps and cartographers - the video and DVD Many Ways to See the World.....ODT, Inc. began as a management consulting company focusing on topics of employee empowerment, performance appraisal, and self-directed work teams. In 1989, ODT pioneered the use of the Peters Projection map materials in a variety of corporate culture change, leadership, and diversity diagnostic projects. With this, our transition began from dynamic consultants to innovative map publishers.....From our origins of providing assistance to human resource departments to now offering new and exciting visual representations of the world through unique maps, ODT's mission of honoring differences and teaching people to see the world from a broader, more inclusive perspective remains at the core of all ODT activities. Plans for the next five years include the publishing of new maps and resource materials, updating of our previous material, and initiating extensive in-service teacher training and train-the-trainer workshops to expand the reach of our message.....We welcome your feedback and suggestions as our company continues to grow. Please feel free to contact us for special projects, or to learn about a variety of specialty papers we have in stock. This laminated version is our most popular (and durable) format.
