National Geographic Maps - Adventure : Iceland (National Geographic Adventure Map) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Iceland (National Geographic Adventure Map):

We drove extensively through the southern part of the country (to Vik), through the Reykjavk-Keflavk area and also the western part of the country north of the Reykjavk area (to Snaefellsjoekull).I read the reviews of this map (obviously not closely enough) before I purchased it and thought that the negative reviews were perhaps due to folks needing more detail on minor roads and the like. We would be sticking to well established roads so i thought there would be no problems for us. After all if it's a NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC map, they're experts in adventure right? And this is called an ADVENTURE MAP so I didn't expect major flaws in the map when it came to the main roads. I was wrong.On several occasions we were disappointed with the lack of detail in the map, that's a small headache and a problem but when driving in a country like Iceland you should expect some flaws as roads do change etc.. the minor stuff we didn't have a problem with and we figured things out as we went. What is unacceptable is that there are main roads on this map that are listed COMPLETELY OFF THE MARK from where they really are located. The inaccuracies cost us dearly one day as we wasted nearly half the day trying to get back on track after being thrown off course because of the map.If you are planning a trip to Iceland that involves driving do yourself a favor and purchase a different map.3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Valuable travel aid... to KeepsakeBy EmellebeeWho wouldn't have fun planning a trip to Iceland?Didn't realize the map came with one half of country on front side and second half on back.Took to Iceland for a ten day trip and was very pleased with how tough and water resistant it was,Now a treasured keepsake of our adventure.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Dope mapBy CustomerGreat map, used it for a two week roadtrip and had no problems. Made of plastic or something so that it doesn't rip or get damaged when it's wet, which are both key in Iceland.

Waterproof Tear-Resistant Travel MapLet National Geographic's Iceland Adventure Map guide you as you discover the pristine nature and unique scenery on this Nordic island. The expertly researched map, with its accurate and detailed information, is designed to meet the needs of adventure travelers. In addition to a clearly marked road network, with distances and destinations of both major and main roads, the map also delivers an abundance of specialized content not found in traditional road maps. An index of cities and towns will help you arrive at your destination quickly. Recreational, ecological, cultural, and historic points of interest as well as secondary roads, remote tracks, secluded paths and ferry routes will aid in your exploration both on and off the beaten path. Among the pinpointed points of interest are hot springs, geysers, waterfalls, caves, museums, lighthouses, swimming pools, golf courses, campsites and scenic viewpoints. Also labeled are the UNESCO World Heritage Sites, Thingvellir National Park and the volcanic island of Surtsey. The shaded relief map details the entire island, contour lines are drawn, peaks and summits are labeled with elevations, forested areas are shaded, water features are shown and boundaries of National Parks and nature reserves are color-coded, making it the perfect companion to any guidebook. Every Adventure Map is printed on durable synthetic paper, making them waterproof, tear-resistant and tough capable of withstanding the rigors of international travel.Map Scale = 1:465,000Sheet Size = 25.5" x 37.75"Folded Size = 4.25" x 9.25"
