This unusual and very well written story encapsulates 5 months on an ulpan, a school for the intense study of Hebrew, located in the sleepy town of Nazareth Illit. The relationships between the 7 students morph and nothing is ever quite what it seems to be as slowly more is revealed. The setting of an ulpan and the author's skill at character development intrigued me.

A Captivating Story Of Aliya! Packed in their baggage, together with their possessions, are the dreams, hopes and fears for the future for seven new immigrants, "Olim", trying to come to terms with their Judaism, and what it means to be Israeli. Against the Biblical landscape of Galilee, sit and learn with these English-speaking students in their "Ulpan" at the Absorption Center in Israel's Nazareth Illit, during their 5-month crash-course to learn Hebrew, their new language. Dvora Waysman, prize-winning author of "The Pomegranate Pendant", will once again touch your heart with her novel, "In A Good Pasture."
