It had just enough information to avoid the information overload of other guide books. Coupled with online reviews and this book, we were able to do lots of planning in advance as well as flying by the seat of our pants when we had extra time. Loved that it included playgrounds - no other guide book tells you about awesome playgrounds. I highly recommend for any family taking a trip to NYC with kids. This book will still be a great resource even when the kids are older.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. About the Author Born in 1968, Giovanni Simeone grew up to study photography in Milan, Italy. In the early nineties he worked in Germany for a photo agency and traveled for almost three years around the world before moving to Paris to start shooting as an exclusively contracted photographer for "Le Figaro" magazine, producing more than fifty stories for that publication. After this incredible experience, Giovanni founded his photo agency, Simephoto (www.simephoto.com), driving a group of 50 of among the best landscape and travel photographers in Europe. Giovanni's portfolio includes clients such as "The National Geographic Traveler," "Le Figaro," "Outside," "Geo Germany," "Stern," "la Repubblica," "The Sunday Times," and "The Guardian." In 2011, Giovanni founded a publishing house (www.simebooks.com) dedicated to creating books with new imagery and new atmospheres. His latest book, "Not Food for Old Men: A Mexican Culinary Adventure," reached the top ten in four different categories on .com. Giovanni currently lives in Italy and Los Angeles; and just south of the latter he discovered a land where photographers have so far missed out on an ample supply of shooting opportunities: Baja California. Sara DeGonia is a writer and editor living and working in Los Angeles, California. When she's not combing through her clients' work for copy edits, or working on her next book, Sara can be found curled up with a popular novel, a brand new cookbook, or the latest issue of Entertainment Weekly. She also enjoys taking advantage of California's beaches, seeing anything at the Hollywood Bowl, and weekly visits to the local movie theater with her husband, Andrew.
