John Douglas : Norway's Arctic Highway: Mo I Rana to Kirkenes before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Norway's Arctic Highway: Mo I Rana to Kirkenes:

Norway's Arctic Highway stretches 900 miles from Mo i Rana to Kirkenes, almost all of the route within the Arctic Circle. At its most northern point the road comes to within 19.5 degrees of the North Pole. This is a region of intense physical beauty--tundra plateaux, vast glaciers, and magnificent fjords. It's also the land of the Sami people. Includes places to stay, places to eat, what to see, getting to Norway from North America and other parts of Europe, a kilometer by kilometer route guide, and background information on the people, flora, and fauna of the region.
