Nothing in the description says it is based off the Bible. There are lots of great bits of information, but I specifically choose this one vs the other similar one out there because it appeared to be secular. You can imagine my surprise when the beginning of the chart starts with the creation story listed in genesis of the Bible. Continuing on to the people before the flood and after the flood. I already have a timeline of this sort and would like to have a secular timeline to compare the two. THIS particular item does not fit our needs, nor does it fit the description.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. 2012 and still not includedBy phillips_emLike previous renditions the history from an entire continent (Africa) is missing other than a chronicle of the Egyptian empires. No western kingdoms (Mali, Songhai) from middle ages are included. Only a few condensed snippets of nations "birthed" from European colonialism (south africa) are listed as branch off UK, France, Belgium in 20th century. This is NOT when these people groups began. Though i notice the effort I'm extremely disappointed that this 2012 version STILL does not include this part of history, yet considered thorough.35 of 38 people found the following review helpful. Excellent Resource for HomeschoolingBy homeschool_mamaWhat a great way for my homeschooled kids to study world history! This timechart is a valuable tool for the visual learner! The high-gloss, and colorful illustrations bring to life the histories of the world from a Biblical worldview in an easy-to-read linear format. The timeline uses Usher's chronology of the world that begins in 4004 BC with Adam and Eve.At a glance, you can see the history of the Bible compared next to Egypt, Greece, China, Babylon, Rome, Persia, Britain, France, Germany, Turkey, India, Russia, America, and on and on... current to 2011. Not only does it show the rulers of those countries, but also lists interesting facts about those countries and what was going on at a certain time in history.This book is huge at 17.5" tall and 12" wide. The pages inside are accordion folded and can be unfolded to a length that spans about 15.5 feet! It can not be taken out of the book unless you cut it out, but that can be easily done if you want to hang it on a wall. The back of the timechart is also printed and includes maps and charts about some of the major nations rulers and dynasties for a more detailed look. (See pictures added to description)This is a great and practical resource for anyone wanting to learn about the world's history!

The timechart is based on an original Victorian wall chart, published in 1890. It follows the entire history of mankind and shows what was happening concurrently around the world with illustrations of many major events, discoveries and prominent people. While maintaining the Victorian design, the chart has been updated and extended so that the time stream continues into the twenty first century, right up to the present day. There are maps and charts, and on the reverse of the timechart there is a vast store of extra information on the different nations' rulers and dynasties. Completely revised and updated Improved illustrations to the stream of time Country panels have all been updated with latest USA Presidential changes and Presidents of Republics and Royalty. New gatefold flap with Significant Historical Events Over 750,000 copies of 1st , 2nd and 3rd editions printed

About the AuthorDave Gibbons has over 40 years' experience in the comic book industry. He has done many books for DC Comics and was the artist for the bestselling series, The Watchmen. He was an early adopter of computer design and still has a tremendous reputation with hand drawn fans. He is credited as being the right-hand-man to Alan Moore in bringing comic books out of the world of children and into the lurid mainstream. A venerable name in comics indeed, he was awarded the first Comics' Laureate in 2014.
